THEME

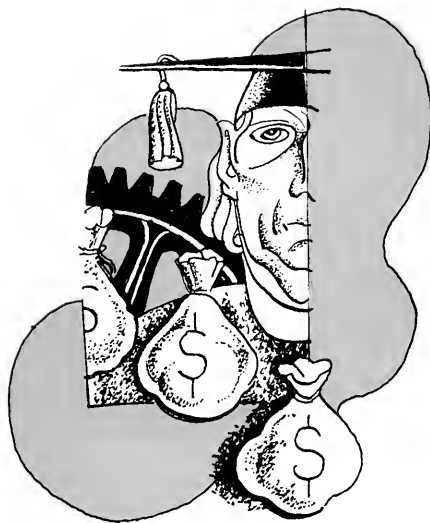

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA IS A CHILD OF THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA. WITH THIS THOUGHT IN MIND, WE BELIEVE IT FITTING THAT WE SHOULD DEDICATE THIS FORTY SEVENTH VOLUME OF THE YACKETY YACK TO THE MOTHER OF THE UNIVERSITY. WE HERE STRIVE TO PORTRAY AND TO A CERTAIN EXTENT VISUALIZE THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE STATE IN ALL THEIR RAMIFICATIONS. USING THIS AS A BACKGROUND, UPON IT WE HAVE PLACED THE RECORD OF THE CURRENT SCHOOL YEAR IN CHAPEL HILL.

FRANK PORTER GRAHAM
President of the University

TO THE CLASS OF 1937:

In September, 1933, you entered here when the University, the nation, and your homes had faced dark hours. In the spring of your high school senior year every bank had been closed by order of the President, symbolizing the complete paralysis of the exchange of goods and services which make possible civilization as we know it.

Crucial decisions and measures of re-organization have been taken, both here and abroad. Here the major decisions of consolidation have been settled, and restoration of the budget and new departments and activities indicate a new forward movement. In the nation reconstruction and recovery are under way and major lines of direction have appeared.

On the campus a major crisis in student responsibility has been met and transcended. The new integration of the Campus Cabinet and a higher tone of confidence in student capacity appear.

Your four years here have contained more of crisis, solution, and reconstruction on campus and in state and nation than experienced by any student generation since the Civil War. Surely the product of these four years will not lack maturity, character, capacity for calm thought amid excitement, and constructive loyalty amid confusion. As you go your way our hearts go with you and rejoice that you can face the future with new confidence.

FRANCIS F. BRADSHAW.

ROBERT B. HOUSE

Dean of Administration

The Class of 1937 will remember their college years as a period of major importance, new alignments and new adjustments within the nation and between the nations of the world. The stress and strain of this period have reflected themselves in the structure of college education itself. This class has achieved its maturity at a time when the University has been working out new policies, new organization, and, it is hoped, a new spirit in its educational work. Faculty and students have agreed and disagreed about the course of study, examinations, required attendance, honors courses, individual programs, but they have stuck together in working out what we hope to be improvements. Never before have students in the University enjoyed a more direct contact with and influence on the very nature of the University itself. They have organized new types of discussion groups, they have used their publications and their committees more directly as sources of advice and guidance to the faculty, and they have participated more thoroughly in faculty deliberations.

Major problems of consolidation and adjustment of University education within the framework of the State have concerned the University during this generation of students. A direct challenge to student honor and student self-government has been met by the students. The right of students and faculty to participate in major political issues of the day and to study freely and to interpret fearlessly various political, social, and economic points of view have been challenged during this generation as never before in the history of the University. The major problem of amateur athletics presented a challenge to the sportsmanship and integrity of the institution. As a result, the University understands itself and its work better, whether looked at from the point of view of faculty and administration, students, alumni, friends, or the general citizenship of the State itself.

The University has seemed to attach itself to the manifold life of the State more thoroughly and more variously than ever before. As a result, it is more alive, more courageous, and more abreast of its essential problems than ever before. It has been a hard time in which to study and grow, and yet the Class of 1937 has achieved distinction and comes to graduation bearing the fruit of four years in terms of an enriched, expanded, and vitalized living.

GENERAL COLLEGE

1936-37 is the first year of full responsibility of the General College for all freshmen and sophomores in the University at Chapel Hill, excepting only those in the School of Pharmacy. For these underclassmen, 1264 in number, the faculty and administrative staff of the General College attempt to provide appropriate studies and helpful guidance.

The courses of study are intended: (1) to present those basic subjects which are considered to be essential to a liberal education, (2) to provide opportunities for the discovery and development of interests and aptitudes, and (3) to contribute to preparation for later specialized training.

The administrative staff is concerned with the more effective adaptation of our educational resources to the needs of the individual. A faculty committee of nine advisors works with a group of forty distinguished upperclassmen in welcoming first-year students to Chapel Hill and in introducing them to the activities of the community. From the time of admission until the beginning of the junior year each student is associated with one of the advisors who tries to help him make here the best use of the several means of physical, intellectual, and spiritual growth. Thus through the advisors the University attempts to maintain with every student a human relationship devoted to the fullest development of his qualities and greatest powers.

THE FRESHMAN ADVISORS

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

The function of the College of Arts and Sciences is the preparation of programs of study leading to the various degrees under its control, the guidance of students following such programs, and the awarding of degrees. Its responsibilities are confined largely to the upper two years of the undergraduate life. The work of the students, under the plan known as "The Major Scheme", or the "Field of Concentration Scheme", falls generally into the three main divisions: the Humanities, the Social Sciences, and the Natural Sciences. The purpose of this plan is to relate Departments with a somewhat similar aim and content, to the end that the education of the student may be built upon as wide a foundation as is reasonable without a too great scattering of his efforts.

Very little is actually known about the essentials of education. It is almost as variable as are people and attempts to canalize it are rather generally fatal to the thing we are trying to foster. However, in our present state of ignorance, we are fairly well agreed upon some subjects as being of sufficient importance to be required for the degrees; such subjects as English, some Science, and some History. As a matter of fact, a college course cannot chart the life of a man and furnish him a blueprint by which to meet the exigencies of life in this world; all it can do is to furnish certain principles and the will to study.

The purpose of the College is to give the opportunity to students to develop their talents in the intellectual world, to help them see a larger world, to fit them for the public service. Integrity and knowledge are our only hopes if we are to have an enduring civilization. We cannot go on very long unless we are willing to introduce more order into the economy of our country. At present those who try for this kind of order are labeled with all sorts of bad names in the hope that the people may still a little longer be kept in confusion. The only kind of prosperity worth fighting for is a long continued general prosperity, and this is the place for integrity and knowledge. For these purposes we believe in language, in science, in history, in philosophy, in art, in economics, in government, and we believe that the direction of progress is in learning before action, in experience before revolution; we place study before propaganda, so that in the end we may all be propagandists for the right based upon knowledge plus experience.

THE SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

The School of Commerce at the University of North Carolina was established in 1919. Although courses in economics and in certain business subjects had been offered before the establishment of the School, the regular business curriculum was not established until that year, 1919. Industrial growth has been rapid since that time, and there has been a wide demand for trained leaders in the various fields of commercial activity. The University of North Carolina has realized the importance of this demand for business leaders, and has set up a curriculum that will provide its students with as thorough and as scientific training as it is possible to give in this field. Courses are given in the subjects dealing with the cultural and social side of life, but the teaching policy is directed mainly along lines dealing with the organization and administration of typical business enterprises.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

The Graduate School, ideally considered, is a band of qualified teachers and students applying themselves in freedom and with the necessary library and laboratory resources to the problems that interest them. The School entertains an ideal of excellence as a rule of practice. It has its special province in the investigation, discovery, and application of truth. It is interested in the materials of knowledge; it is concerned with the verification of that knowledge on evidence and with the expansion of it by discovery. This sort of activity in teaching and study occurred long before formal universities appeared, being then, as now, a part of life and civilization.

The School seeks, through advanced training and investigation, to render a service to education and the teaching professions, particularly law, medicine, engineering, and pharmacy; to business, industry, agriculture, and pure and applied science; to government, citizenship, and administration; to art and culture; and to society and human relations.

SCHOOL OF LAW

The Law School, which has developed into the School of Law of the University of North Carolina, was founded at Chapel Hill in 1843 as a private school by William H. Battle, then a judge of the Superior Court. In 1845, Judge Battle was made Professor of Law in the University, and it was provided that the degree of Bachelor of Laws should be conferred on those completing the prescribed two-year course. For a long time the School maintained a certain independence from the University and students in law were not entirely subject to the discipline of the University. In 1899, the School was completely incorporated into the University, with the late James C. McRae as the first Dean of the Law School.

The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and has been listed as one of the sixty-five schools classed as "approved law schools".

THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

The beginning of medical instruction at the University of North Carolina dates back to 1879, when Dr. Thomas W. Harris conducted here a medical class under the preceptorial method of instruction with the assistance of certain University departments. The School was discontinued in 1886. In 1890 the present School of Medicine was founded under the direction of Dr. Richard H. Whitehead, and in 1900 became incorporated into the University as a fully organized two-year medical school.

Since that date the School has had an uninterrupted record of service to the State, has continued to grow in influence throughout the State and Nation, and has won for itself a record among medical educators for the excellence and thoroughness of its work.

In 1898 it was admitted to membership into the Association of American Medical Colleges, and is ranked in Class A group of American Medical Schools. Over 600 of the 2,300 practicing physicians in North Carolina today are alumni of the institution, and they include and have included many of the most prominent and influential physicians in North Carolina.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

Courses in Pharmacy were given at the University from 1880 to 1897 under the administration of the School of Medicine. In 1897, the present School of Pharmacy was established, and Edward Vernon Howell was elected Professor of Pharmacy, and given charge of the School. In 1927 the School was admitted to membership in the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, an organization founded for the promotion of pharmaceutical education. In order to comply with the Association's requirements the course of study leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy had been advanced in 1925 from two to three years, and in September, 1932, the three year course was replaced by a baccalaureate course. The present curriculum is so arranged that elective specialization begins in the Junior year so as to allow graduates to enter any one of three different types of pharmaceutical service.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

Courses in Library Science at the University of North Carolina were begun in 1904. The School of Library Science offering a one-year curriculum leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Library Science was established in 1931, as a result of a gift from the Carnegie Corporation. The School requires a bachelor's degree from an approved college for admission to its curriculum. It gives training for varying types of positions in different kinds of libraries. It belongs to the Division of the Library and Library School, one of the five major divisions of the University.

The School of Library Science is a member of the Association of American Library Schools and is one of the twenty-six library schools accredited by the American Library Association. In the five years of its existence, the School has graduated one hundred and fifteen students and has placed its alumni in nineteen states and the District of Columbia.

HILL MUSIC BUILDING

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

The work in Music is planned to meet the needs of students who choose Music as a major subject and of others who elect Music courses to supplement their programs in other fields. Those electing Music as their chief interest are given a thorough training in the practical, theoretical, and historical aspects of the subject as a part of the liberal arts curriculum for the A.B. degree. Others have many opportunities to develop a good musical background through participation in the musical organizations, taking instruction in applied music, enrolling in courses in appreciation, attending concerts, and listening to recorded music in audition rooms equipped with phonographs. The Hill Music Hall is the center of musical activities on the campus.

THE PLAYMAKERS' THEATRE

FREDERICK H. KOCH, Department Head

DEPARTMENT OF DRAMA

Nineteen years ago, in 1918, the Carolina Playmakers were founded with their aim the making of a native drama. Since that time this dramatic group has made its name and works nationally and even internationally known. From its members have come such literary figures as Paul Green and Thomas Wolfe, and actors, directors, technicians, and teachers who are successful in the professional, school, and community theatres.

Last September saw the inauguration of a Department of Dramatic Art at the University of North Carolina, a Department which grants both a Bachelor's and a Master's degree. Through classwork and participation in the various productions of the Carolina Playmakers the student may perfect himself in all phases of theatre work. The Playmakers Theatre Building and Scene Shop offer ample opportunity for the student to test theory with practice, in both experimental and public productions.

In addition to offering literary and technical training in the theatre, the Department has as its primary aim the development of a drama that will adequately interpret American life.

STUDENT-FACULTY COMMITTEE ON INSTRUCTION

Prior to this year no agency to bring faculty and students together to discuss mutual problems of education has existed. Through the cooperation of Dean A. W. Hobbs this fall, however, the Faculty Committee on Instruction began meeting regularly with students to talk over ways of improving the educational program of the University. From these discussions developed what came to be known as the Student-Faculty Committee on Instruction, a group which extended to the students the democratic opportunity to take part in developing educational policies and procedures.

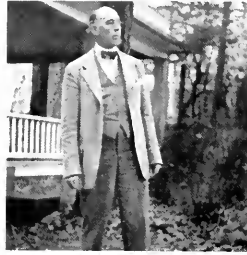

The Student-Faculty Committee on Instruction is composed of two groups: The Committee of Deans, made up of A. W. Hobbs, D. D. Carroll, F. F. Bradshaw, C. P. Spruill, W. W. Pierson, R. B. House; and the Student Committee on Education, originally the editorial writers of the Daily Tar Heel, but later developed into a representative campus group—Don Wetherbee, Scott Hunter, Mac Smith, Julia Folsom, Stuart Rabb, Nancy Schallert, Niles Bond, Edwin Kahn, Bob Magill, Newton Craig, Reed Sarratt, and Don McKee.

Among the subjects studied by the committee were: proposals for providing special opportunities for exceptional students, the grading and examination systems, and attendance requirements. As a result of early committee discussion, administrative officials revived the program of independent and self-directed study known as the Hibbard Honors College. The Student-Faculty Committee on Instruction parallels in the educational field the Student Advisory Committee in the business field and the Student Welfare Board in the field of student welfare. The Student Advisory Committee represents the students to the business administration; the Student Welfare Board advises the office of the dean of students and health officials on matters pertaining to student well-being. With the Student-Faculty Committee on Instruction offering students opportunity to advise on educational matters, this year for the first time students are represented in all phases of University activity—business, welfare, and education.

The Alumni Association is an all-University organization, embracing in its membership alumni ranging in classes from the oldest alumnus to the youngest graduate. Formed in 1843, the Association endeavors through local alumni clubs, permanently organized classes, an annual General Assembly, various committees and projects, and The Alumni Review to supply channels for the 22,000 living graduates and former students to express their interest to the University and to promote its welfare. The Association seeks to encourage active alumni loyalty wherever such exists and endeavors to stimulate interest and loyalty where these do not exist. The social side of continuing college friendships flourishes in local club meetings, class reunions, homecomings, etc. Through the columns of The Alumni Review—the official magazine—alumni members keep up with affairs in Chapel Hill and in the big alumni family. General in its service to the University and personal in its relationship to the alumni, the Alumni Association endeavors to link the Past with the Present for the Future of Alma Mater.

Any graduate or former student is eligible for membership in the Association. Only those who belong to the Association participate in its elections and receive its magazine. Alumni headquarters in Chapel Hill are at the Carolina Inn which serves as an alumni clubhouse.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

FRID H. WEAVER

Vice-President of the Student Body

WEAVER

Student government at the University is a powerful and effective student democracy, a training ground for citizenship in that greater democracy in which every student must soon play his or her part. Free from the control of the administration, governed by no written constitution, and subject only to the will of a responsible and intelligent student body, student government has developed into one of the finest features of student life. Through the years it has grown slowly but steadily, adding to its responsibilities, and gradually and carefully molding its powers into a well balanced and efficient form of student government. Today, it has attained the unique position as reported by the General Board of Education upon a survey made of the University a few years ago, of more nearly approaching absolute student self-government than that of any other college in the nation.

Upon the fundamental principle of honor rests the foundation and very existence of student government. This principle of honor is realized in student government through an honor system, the working formula to administer and maintain high standards of individual honor throughout student life. Under the honor system every student is on his honor not to cheat, lie, or steal. In case he should see another student doing so, he is on his honor to report such an offender to the Student Council.

Within the jurisdiction of the Student Council comes not only breaches of honor, but also breaches of conduct, which are covered by the Campus Code under which every student is bound on his responsibility as a gentleman to conduct himself as such at all times and to see to it, insofar as possible, that his fellow students do likewise.

The Student Council tries all breaches of the Honor System and the Campus Code reported to it, and in administering its disciplinary function, the Council attempts to be constructively corrective rather than punitive. To guide the Student Body to a higher concept of honor and to further the interest in student government is the Council's objective, and the attainment of it rests upon the active interest and cooperation of every member of the Student Body.

The remaining two are Faculty members, appointed by the Administration for terms of two years each. The Faculty Advisor attends meetings, but has no vote.

Financing and administration of the publications are directed by the Board. It appoints Business Managers and Managing Editors for all publications, awards contracts, and settles controversial matters within publication departments.

THE GRAHAM MEMORIAL

THE STUDENT UNION

Growth in American colleges and universities in the past twenty years has meant centering more attention on student self government and activities outside the classroom. This has not been to the detriment of the fundamentals of education, but contrarily, has been a tremendous help in modern liberal education.

The more successful formulation of extra-curricular activities has occurred in approximately forty colleges and universities in the United States and Canada where student unions have been organized, many of them having buildings and activity programs for the express purpose of the useful allocation of leisure time. The Association of College Unions holds annual conventions; the sixteenth convention was held at Chapel Hill in 1935. Most of the student unions are in the larger Eastern and Middle Western institutions.

The Graham Memorial building, University Student Union, conceived as a memorial to Edward Kidder Graham, was opened in October, 1931, and finally dedicated to the use of the students on January 29, 1932. The building serves as a social and activity center for the campus community.

Graham Memorial is not solely a student organization but is a University rather than just an undergraduate center. It is the gathering place of students and faculty outside the classroom and the headquarters of alumni and visitors.

Every student of the University is a member of the Graham Memorial Union, and upon registration pays $1.00 each quarter for privileges and membership.

The Board of Directors is composed of the following members:

The Dean of Administration, Dean of Students, Y.M.C.A. Secretary, President of the Alumni Association, or a representative appointed by him, Secretary of the Alumni Association, President of the Student Body, Chairman, President of the Women's Association, Editor of the Daily Tar Heel, Presidents of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes, representative from the Inter-Dormitory Council, and the President of the Interfraternity Council.

The Campus Cabinet functions as a central steering committee for the Student Forum, and also as a discussion group representing all the various student activities. Its membership comprises the leaders in all the respective student control bodies, honorary groups, social orders, publications, and the class presidents. In addition there are a few members who, while holding no particular office, have taken an active part in campus affairs. The president of the student body is chairman of the Cabinet.

The primary objective of the Campus Cabinet is to promote a democratic student government according to an integrated program, and to eliminate disconcerted efforts among the activities by providing a medium for coordination. Through the Campus Cabinet the concerted interests of all representative groups are brought to bear upon the problems of any particular group. Whereas the same coordinated action is provided for the student body as a whole through the medium of the Student Forum, comprising over one hundred representative students selected by the Cabinet.

Through these two groups the special interests of particular activities and the interests of the general student body are merged, the upshot being a harmonious program of activities.

BLACKWELL ROBINSON

A prime socialite and an ace student. He combined frequent trips to Durham with a determined outlook to miss none of the dances for four years. A member of K. A. and Phi Beta Kappa.

RANDOLPH ROWLAND

Another one of the social-conscious boys. As the Sigma Chi President of the German Club he has gone far toward helping Carolina get some of the best hands in the country for her dances.

REED SARRATT

Reed began his career here by being spokesman for his class. He turned to writing and became Managing Editor of the Tar Heel his Senior year. Always interested in his class, he served on the executive committee three times.

LOUIS SHAFFNER

"Big Shot" was a worker and gained his glory in that way rather than through politics. As president of Phi Beta Kappa and S. A. E., and as a mainstay of the Student Welfare Committee, he has made his class proud of him. All that couldn't steal his enviable social life.

THE YACKETY YACK

NED McALLISTER

It is the purpose of the annual of the University of North Carolina to picture and to a certain extent portray the activities of the year that the book covers. With this in mind the staff has endeavored to gather such data as it deems significant and representative of the activities and performances of the University and the activities of the numerous organizations here on the campus.

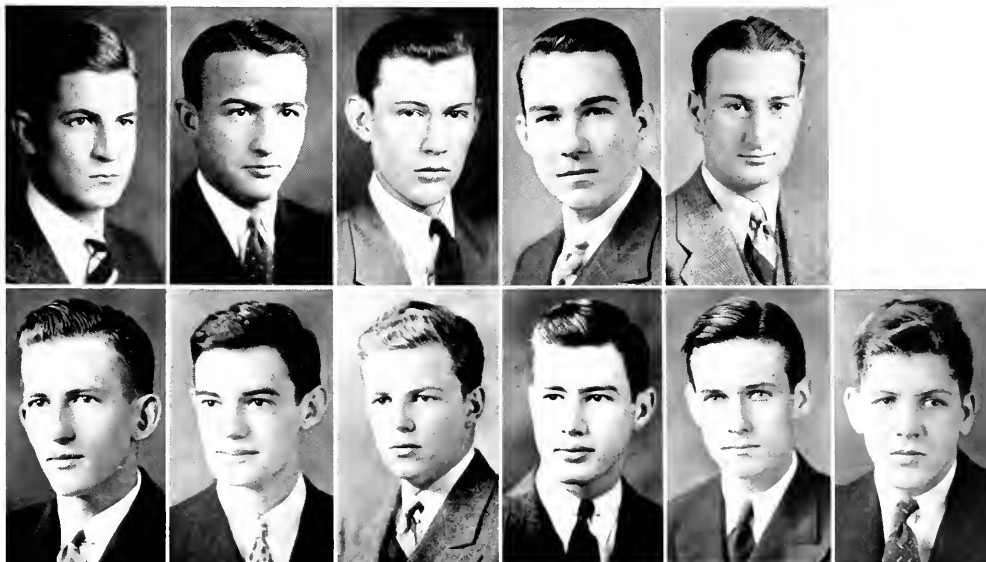

The basic idea or theme of this book has been used merely as a background for the material presented, rather than as the essential purpose of the annual within itself. It has been used simply as a chain with which to link the divergent elements included here.

Whereas it may be charged that too little originality has been imbued into this YACKETY YACK, we feel that it has accomplished its purpose when it has set forth the material it is supposed to present. Too much originality may lead to misinterpretation of the essential idea.

It has been through the earnest efforts of Mr. Kenneth Whittett, of the Pictorial Engraving Company, that the art work of this annual has been developed. To Mr. Frank Fleming, of The Lasser Press, the YACKETY YACK owes the supervision of the printing of the book.

Without the cooperation of the actual working staff of the annual the book would never have been possible. It has been the desire of the editor to limit his staff to those men who have showed real interest in their work and efficiency in carrying out their assignments.

Under the editorial page masthead of the Daily Tar Heel this year has waved the inkspotted banner, "To Help Something Better Grow". These words express the aim of our 1936-37 journalistic efforts. To lift human activities to a finer and better level—to increase the possibilities for more individuals to grow in making the fullest use of their potentialities for the highest social good—is the end of all creative endeavor. This social advancement comes as internal growth; it may be stimulated but not forced. To cooperate and encourage forces and agencies in our campus life making for social and individual growth towards goodness and beauty have been the purpose of the 1936-37 Daily Tar Heel.

Under this standard the paper has striven, in the main, to vigorously support faculty and student demands to remove admissions discriminating against women, to cooperate with the formation of a permanent student-faculty committee, to advise mutually on matters of education, to back the suggestions of this group for further individualization of the educational program of the University, to push the developing Carolina tendency towards "Sports for All"—and to present a news coverage improving in accuracy, interest, and service. This has been our attempt. To the faithful and hardworking members of the staff any credit for these efforts belongs.

THE CAROLINA BUCCANEER

With its eight issues during the past school year, the Carolina Buccaneer has attempted to entertain and enlighten, as it were, the youth of today. The field for the extraction and presentation of material has necessarily been confined to the campus. Not to have done this would have meant competition with nationally recognized comic magazines. Any such attempt would have been useless and readily recognized as a poor imitation. In spite of a fixed locality and limited funds, the personnel has succeeded in its aim—to publish a light and readable humor magazine, yet one that is snappy and clean.

At the beginning of the year a new arrangement of officers was set up, whereby responsibility was more evenly divided. The policies of the magazine as a whole and for each issue were in the hands of and controlled by a governing group. Frequent meetings made it possible for this governing group to make changes from issue to issue, so that, by the middle of the year an entirely different magazine was published monthly as to material and actual contents, but with the same balanced form.

If the publication has been successful over the past year, the credit must go to the members of the staff. Through their untiring efforts, inexhaustible interest, and complete cooperation, they have at least fulfilled their intentions. Before the year had passed its halfway mark the staff was composed of more than a few experienced and mature artists. Artists, not in their strictest sense, but artists in each of their fields. Cartoonists developed styles of their own and above all, stuck to originality. Authors became adept at making their stories sparkle with lively humor. As for the poets, it might be said that this past year for the first time, the readers actually read the poetry printed. Photography was emphasized more than ever before, and photographers, induced to extend themselves, produced commendable results. The staff and the publication's many outside contributors are due all the thanks, for they are the ones that pooled their efforts in one common accord—to give the students a humor magazine for students.

For too long a time accustomed to lying in stacks unread and uncalled for among the empty cola crates behind dormitory store counters, or scattered carelessly among the hats and books in fraternity vestibules, the Carolina Magazine this year grew weary of its smothered existence.

"What good is accomplished", it asked, "by the finest story or essay if it is read by only a small portion of the paying public?" Fearful that its pages could add very little to the world's knowledge and thinking, the Magazine concentrated its attention on being of interest to its readers.

With a new type (Caslon), new heads and the excellent linoleum blocks of Margaret Munch it improved the looks of its insides. With designs and photographs it brightened its covers. With a new editorial understanding (that the general reader easily tires of a too specialized publication however good the specialty) the editors widened the range of subject material and trampled down some of the barriers that had delineated the forms for fiction and criticism.

In its relations with the Publications Union Board the Magazine had its most successful year. For the first time in remembered history it was allowed a budget for illustration. After this concession the editors almost rose to the point of requisitioning a dictionary, but then decided wisely to be content with the success already won.

The Carolina Political Union was reorganized under the leadership of Floyd Fletcher and Frank McGlinn in the spring of 1936. In less than a year it has become one of the outstanding campus organizations and its importance is expected to increase rapidly during the next few years.

Last spring the Union brought to Chapel Hill the four contenders for the North Carolina Democratic gubernatorial nomination and a representative of the American Liberty League.

This fall the Union succeeded in bringing to the University three representatives of the Republican Party including its Vice-Presidential nominee, Colonel Frank Knox, and the eminent North Carolina novelist, Thomas Dixon; a representative of the Socialist party, and several members of the Democratic party, including Senator Josiah Bailey and Congressman Bob Doughton. Also during the fall the Political Union conducted a campus poll which predicted the Roosevelt victory vote in North Carolina to within a few degrees of 100% and was responsible for the organization of local Republican and Democratic clubs.

During the winter the Union presented Governor Paul McNutt of Indiana, and plans for the future consist of bringing to Chapel Hill Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Senator Robert Reynolds, and Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia.

It is the purpose of the Union to stimulate interest in politics, both state and national, with the hope that this interest will help the cause of good government. With the bringing of these speakers to Chapel Hill, the students, the faculty, and townspeople have an opportunity to study and interview their leaders personally.

THE DIALECTIC SENATE IN SESSION

THE DIALECTIC SENATE

The Dialectic Society was organized in 1795—the year of the opening of the University. For many years, membership in the Di or Phi was compulsory. At that time, they were not only debating societies but served as organizations of student government and instruction (the officers taught English composition to the freshmen) as well. They also published The University Magazine and endowed the library.

In recent years, the activities of the Senate have been confined usually to discussion and deliberation of topics of campus-wide and world-wide importance. Occasionally, action has been taken for the betterment of the campus. The Society has offered in the past and continues to offer excellent training for leadership in public life.

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB

FRANK ROGERS

The University Club with a membership of forty members of the Junior Class representing every fraternity and every dormitory on the campus and with three representatives at large has a close contact with every phase of campus life—a relationship which the University Club peculiarly suited to carry on its wide activities.

The work of the Club is fourfold. During the Fall quarter the Club, by pep rallies, torchlight parades, and radio programs before the games, helps to stimulate "University Spirit". Entertainment and the presentation of celebrities and sponsors at the half periods add to the interest and attractiveness of the contests. The Club appoints the custodian of the Carolina ram-mascot, Rameses, and sees to it that ram and tender have appointed places on the sidelines.

The Club cooperates with other student organizations on the campus helping them in their work which is beneficial to the University as a whole. For example, the Club worked with the Student-Faculty Day Committee by arranging luncheon dates between students and faculty members, and by helping with the Student-Faculty Day Carnival.

The group endeavors to keep alive alumni interest in the University and to stimulate this interest in prospective students. By radio broadcasts and by sponsoring smokers, in cooperation with the General Alumni Office, for alumni and high school students in towns throughout the state, the Club carries on this phase of its work.

The fourth phase of the Club's field of endeavor concerns itself with the improvement of inter-school relations. The Club meets visiting teams, entertains them during their stay at Chapel Hill in an attempt to create good will between the schools.

In short, the University Club's activities are limited only by the Club's motto: "For The University".

INTER-DORMITORY COUNCIL

The Inter-Dormitory Council has as its main objective the furthering of dormitory welfare by establishing better dormitory relations and facilitating inter-dormitory rules and regulations. This is accomplished through the Inter-Dormitory Council which is composed of the individual councils of each dormitory.

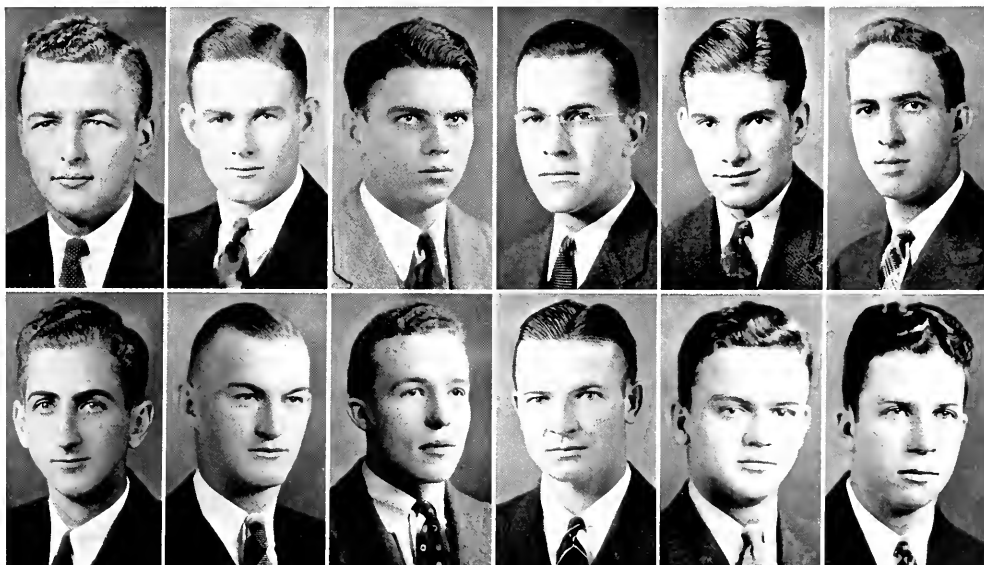

These individual councils are composed of the President, Vice-President, Councilmen, and Athletic Director of each dormitory. These individual councils regulate order and conduct within their particular dormitory and promote social functions, dormitory projects, and intra-mural athletics. Each council promotes activities, social and otherwise for its residents. Cases of dormitory disorder or misconduct are tried first by the council of the dormitory in which it occurred. In cases where the decision of this council is not satisfactory to the resident being tried, the case is referred to the Council of Dormitory Presidents. After a case has been tried by the Council of Presidents it can be carried on to the Student Council for final decision. The powers of the Council are limited to ousting a man from the dormitory and preventing his ever rooming in another dormitory, or to recommend to the Student Council that he be suspended from school.

The officers of the Inter-Dormitory Council are elected by popular vote at the beginning of the Fall quarter from the men that have been elected to the council from the different dormitories. They are: President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer. There is also a man appointed by the Dean of Students who acts as advisor to the Council at its meetings.

The Dormitory Council has gained much in power, importance, and respect within the past few years. The council has sought for dormitory improvement, both in the sense of physical plants and social recognition on the campus. Within the next few years the Council hopes to make the dormitory the best and most wholesome place on the campus in which to live.

The William Cain chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, named for the late William Cain, former professor of mathematics and engineering, was founded in 1920. It is one of a nation wide group of student chapters affiliated with the senior A. S. C. E. The object of the society is to better acquaint the students with the practical side of civil engineering. This is accomplished through speakers at the meetings, and through inspection trips taken by the seniors.

All civil engineering students automatically become members. Meetings are held twice a month. Twice a year joint meetings are held with the student chapters of Duke and State College. The president of this joint society is M. A. Lyons, of Carolina. The seniors also attend the yearly meetings of the North Carolina section of the A. S. C. E.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers was founded in 1884, its objects being the advancement of the theory and practice of Electrical Engineering, the maintenance of high professional standards among its members, and the development of the individual engineer. In 1902, with this latter objective in view, the student branches of the A. I. E. E. were organized. Now, practically every engineering school in the nation has one of these branches, giving its Electrical Engineering students an opportunity to become well acquainted with the profession, and to guide them toward specialized fields.

The University of North Carolina branch had its beginning in 1902, the first year of student branches. All students in Electrical Engineering are considered as members of the branch, and upon payment of dues to the national secretary may become members of the national organization. Upon graduation student members of the branch may transfer to the grade of associate members.

Meetings are held twice a month and occasionally joint meetings are held with the State College and Duke University branches. The program, other than business matters, usually consists of a paper or talk presented by a student. At many meetings guest speakers enable the students to obtain the advice of, and to make contact with men who have had actual experience in the field of Engineering. Definite advantages of membership in the A. I. E. E. Student Branches are that the members meet leaders in their chosen profession, and are kept in touch with the latest developments in Electrical Engineering.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

THE WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

MARGARET JORDAN

ANITA DE MONTSEGLE

The Woman's Association, to which all women students automatically belong, is the student governing body of the women students. Its purpose is to broaden the interests and relationships of the students in and with the Association and the University, by and through student government and activities. The executive body, called the Woman's Council, has final disciplinary power in all matters pertaining to the Honor System, the Campus Code, and regulations for women, and attempts a constructive educational policy in developing individual freedom and democracy. The council is composed of seven representatives: the four officers of the Woman's Association, elected by and from the woman's student body as a whole, the House President of Spencer Hall, the Graduate Representative, and the Town Representative.

The Advisory Committee of the Woman's Council was established for the purpose of feeling out public opinion and making recommendations to the council concerning the establishment of policies, the bettering of relationships between the different groups of women, and increasing their interest in campus affairs, and aiding in any constructive work the council might desire.

Both the town and graduate women are organized into clubs formed for the purpose of promoting wider social and campus interests

The Young Women's Association of the University celebrated its first anniversary only last January, but it has already proved that the "YW" can be a living Christian force among women students on the campus. In its brief career it has held a variety of meetings and forums of religious and social emphasis, has cooperated with the "YM" in bringing speakers to the campus and promoting numerous student conferences, initiated the Officers Training School for all campus organizations, staged a style show, held an international bazaar, furnished counselors for Girl Scouts and Hi-Y groups, given numerous teas, and carried on a considerable amount of committee work on the campus and in the community. This fall the "YW" sponsored the first Orientation Program for new women students. Primarily, the association has emphasized the spiritual life of the women with informal talks, worship services, and discussion of religious topics. In the organization the women have found for the first time a group whose purpose is centered in the women themselves and in which their spiritual growth is the aim. It is inspiring to see that the girls universally support the "YW". The many types with widely diverging interests which one finds in the University campus have all discovered that this Christian Association has a contribution to make to their lives.

COACH WOLFE

CAPTAIN BUCK

HUTCHINS FALLS AGAINST TENNESSEE

Carolina's grid representatives of 1936, under the coaching of Raymond Wolf and his assistants, John Vaught and Bill Lange, carried through to a fine record of eight wins in ten starts. Although it lacked the high scoring and passing form of the 1935 eleven, it played a hard, determined brand of ball throughout the season. All of the Tar Heel foes were strong and not a single "breather" was scheduled. Captain Dick Buck proved an inspiring leader, and he with Andy Bershak and Jim Hutchins, wound up the season with places on several "All teams", Bershak being the standout with a second team All America selection.

Carolina 14, Wake Forest 7

A final period rally brought an over anxious Tar Heel team a 14-7 victory over Wake Forest in its 1936 debut at Charlotte. The Deacons surprised the 12,000 fans as well as the Carolina club by holding the Tar Heels at bay for three periods in addition to scoring in the first period itself; Morris' 58-yard touchdown dash doing the trick. It was not until the final minutes when a 47-yard drive, culminated by a pass from Little to Buck, and a 7-yard right end jaunt by Little, plus two placements by Burnette, made the count 14-7.

Carolina 14, Tennessee 6

Playing exceptionally alert ball the entire first half netted Carolina a 14-6 win over Major Neyland's powerful Tennessee club. Jim Hutchins drove over for a first quarter touchdown and Pete Avery snatched Dickens' fumble and ran 45 yards for another in the second. Burnette's two placements were good. Eldred tallied the Vols' score late in the third period.

Carolina 14, Maryland 0

In weather more appropriate for ducks, Art Ditt led the Tar Heels to a 14-0 win over Maryland in Kenan Stadium. A stubborn Terrapin eleven halted all Carolina offense for the first half, but with Ditt's "carrying the mail" on two 26-yard gallops and Burnette making good both conversions, the Tar Heels gained victory. Carolina's line showed up particularly well, holding the visitors to a single first down. Tackles Bartos and Trimpey were outstanding in the line.

Carolina 14, New York U. 13

The trusty toe of Joe Burnette gave the Tar Heels a 14-13 win in their northern invasion against N.Y.U. at Yankee Stadium. Captain Buck pulled down Hutchins' pass for a first period score and Art Ditt circled left end for 35 yards and the second tally in the third. Burnett's kicks went true. Behind 14-0 as the last quarter started, the Violets pushed over two tallies, but missed one extra point and their chance for a tie contest.

Tulane 21, Carolina 7

A heated skirmish before 18,000 fans at New Orleans saw Tulane snap Carolina's winning streak by a 21-7 margin. The green Wave scored early as Andrews cut over tackle from the four. Moss made the kick. Carolina tied matters at 7-7 in the third period as Dermid crashed through to block Bryan's punt and Bershak fell on the ball for a touchdown. Burnette converted. But Tulane had too much reserve and tallied twice more to take the win.

Carolina 21, N. C. State 6

Carolina overcame a first quarter 6-0 deficit in its Homecoming Day battle with N. C. State to triumph 21-6 before 17,000 fans. Ryneska gave the Wolfpack the advantage early in the contest, but after that it was all Carolina. Late in the third period Hutchins passed to Captain Buck for a first down on the 7, from where Little cut over tackle for a touchdown. Burnette's kick made it 7-6. The last period saw Hutchins run 31 yards and then three for two touchdowns and Burnette bring his conversion record to 12 out of 12.

HUTCHINS RETURNS PUNT IN DUKE GAME

Carolina 26, Davidson 6

The biggest crowd to ever witness a game at Davidson was mildly astonished to see the Tar Heels bang out a 26-6 triumph over the cleverest Wildcat team in history. The Carolinians scored in every quarter; Hutchins twice, and Burnette and Dashiell once each. Lafferty scored Davidson's points on a bit of razzle-dazzle. Number 13 held out as a jinx to Burnette as he missed his first conversion of the year. He later made one and McIver added the other.

Duke 27, Carolina 7

Some 34,000 fans filled Kenan Stadium to see Duke's Blue Devils triumph 27-7 over the Tar Heels in a brilliant contest. It was a great game played by two great teams, but Duke had Ace Parker and that was the margin of victory. Parker gave Duke a 7-0 lead for the first half, but the Tar Heels came back in the second to tie matters as Ditt crashed over and Burnette converted. Then came the history-making 105-yard return of Burnette's kickoff by Parker—the decisive point of the game and the "hair that broke the camel's back".

First half touchdowns by Jim Hutchins and Crowell Little plus two conversions by Tom Burnette gave the Tar Heels a 14-0 win in the battle of the Carolinas. Hutchins sewed up his All-Southern selection for another year as he scampered 23 yards through the entire Gamecock team for the first score. Little raced around right end for the second tally from the 7-yard marker.

Carolina 59, Virginia 14

Carolina closed its season with a Thanksgiving Day rout of Virginia's Cavaliers at Charlottesville. Featured by Trimpey's 80-yard touchdown run and Bershak's blocked-punt-50-yard touchdown play, the Tar Heels swamped their traditional rivals 59-14. It was the worst defeat Virginia had ever suffered on its own field. Others to tally touchdowns for the Carolinians were Cooner, with a 67-yard run, Hutchins, Ditt, Little, Dashiell, Watson, and Stewart. McIver converted on three occasions and Steve Maronic on two.

Carolina's junior basketball team came through in good fashion after a wobbly start to register 17 wins against five losses for the season. The Tar Heels dropped their first Southern Conference title in three years to Washington and Lee, but came through to annex the Big Five championship.

With Captain Earl Ruth on the sidelines, Wake Forest and Davidson triumphed over Carolina in the opening games to put the Tar Heels in a back seat position in the Big Five race. However, the team soon got clicking and won twice over both Duke and N. C. State and avenged the Deacon and Wildcat losses to take the title undisputed.

The second trip of a Carolina court team to Madison Square Garden ended in defeat, but this time it was no pushover for the N. Y. U. boys, the score being 37-30, with reserve forward Hank Wright topping the show. After the N. Y. U. skirmish, Carolina invaded Philadelphia and handed the strong St. Joseph team its first defeat in three years on its home court, 36-34. Bill McCachren scored from underneath in the final minute to win.

N. C. State continued its futile efforts to win over the Tar Heels when it met defeat on two occasions after holding considerable margins at half-time. In the first contest at Raleigh, Mullis featured with 13 points as Carolina won 41-35 in a roughly played contest. The second game was even closer, Carolina winning 34-31 in the Tin Can. State led at the intermission 18-10, but the Tar Heels racked up 24 points to 13 in the second half, Potts heading the scoring with 10 points and Ruth following with 9.

Duke met similar defeats at the hands of Walter Skidmore's White Phantoms, 41-35 in the Tin Can and 37-32 at Durham. Carolina took an early lead in both games and repulsed determined Blue Devil rallies to conquer. Mullis and Ruth headed the scoring in both contests. At Wake Forest, Pete Boone scored in the last minute of play to give Carolina a 31-30 victory over the Deacons.

The triumph of Washington and Lee at Lynchburg by a 29-19 count ended a 12-game win streak for the Phantoms. Tall Bob Spessard of the Generals proved too much for Carolina, tallying 14 points.

Carolina met real strenuous opposition in the Conference tournament. The opening round saw the Phantoms stage a thrilling comeback to defeat Duke 34-30 as Andy Bershak, the colorful forward, and Potts paced the scoring. Wake Forest was eliminated in the semi-finals by a 37-35 margin. Carolina went far out in front at the half, but had to play tight defensive ball to halt the Deacon's final rally.

The Generals took the Tar Heels' measure in the finals, winning the 1937 title after Carolina had beaten them in the 1935 and 1936 finals. Again Spessard proved too much, scoring 25 points. Mullis, Potts and Bershak headed the Carolina attack. Captain Ruth was placed on the first All-Conference team at guard, and Andy Bershak made the second team at forward and Potts at guard.

In the last few years the state of North Carolina has had a renewed interest in boxing. This has been fostered by such tournaments as that known as the Golden Gloves.

BOXING

Boxing coach Michael Z. Ronman came to Carolina from Pennsylvania State College to assume the duties vacated by Crayton Rowe at the culmination of the 1936 season and did a good job in starting the Tar Heel mittmen back up the boxing ladder of fame.

Captain Max Novich, who successfully defended his 165-lb. conference championship at the College Park tournament, and Joe Murnick went through the five dual meets undefeated. Novich competed in the National Intercollegiates, which were not completed at the time of this writing.

Victories were scored over V. P. I. and N. C. State. In the opening match, the Gobblers were defeated 4½ to 3½ at Blacksburg. Woody, Murnick, Medwin, and Novich won while Bass drew. Against State, which was defeated 5-3, Woody, Murnick, Medwin and Novich triumphed while Vanderford and Alderman earned draws.

BOXING

The Tar Heels dropped close matches to Maryland and Virginia by 5-3 scores. In the Maryland meet, Jule Medwin was outstanding with his win over Mike Lombardo, and in the Virginia bouts Captain Novich starred by defeating Mortimer Caplan. Duke won the Big Five title by a 5½ to 2½ score. Captain Novich again stole the spotlight with his brilliant victory over Al Mann. Murnick and Alderman tallied the other points against the Blue Devils.

In the Conference tournament, Captain Novich was the sole titlist. Jule Medwin and Tom Bass went to the semi-finals and Joe Murnick and Lammy Alderman lost out in the quarter-finals. At the end of the season Joe Murnick was elected captain for 1938. Willie Flynt was manager of the 1937 team.

1936 BASEBALL

Carolina's 1936 baseball team showed improvement over the 1935 aggregation, but failed to come up to expectations. Six out of 16 games were won, but the Tar Heels proved worthy opposition to all foes. Coach Hearn's boys performed brilliantly in spots and won over some very hard opponents.

The season's opener was annexed 10-5 over the strong Springfield College nine, sophomore Johnny Humphries turning in a most creditable performance on the mound. Hopes for a championship soared, but were dampened when the Tar Heels lost a string of close ones after emerging from a two weeks rainy spell without practice.

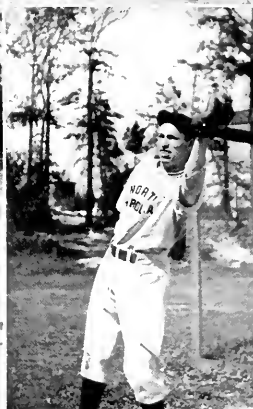

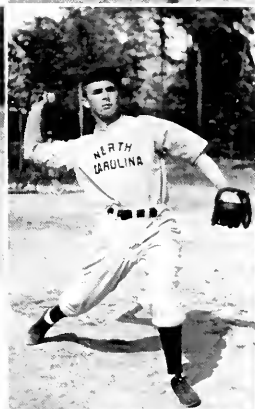

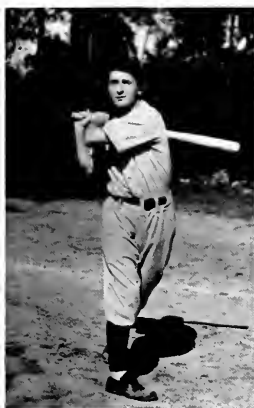

In Big Five competition Carolina won three and lost five. Two-game series were split with Wake Forest, Davidson and Duke, and two were lost to State. The victory over Duke was the first in two years, the Tar Heels winning 7-6 with Captain Shapiro and Humphries starring.

Carolina fared no better in Southern Conference play, winning three and losing six. The 100th game in the Carolina-Virginia series was won by a 14-2 count, Humphries again starring on the mound as well as at the bat. Highlights of the season included Buck McCarn's 516-foot home run at W. & L., Tom Burnette's homer to tie the score in the second Duke game, the circuit clouts of Humphries, Strayhorn and Captain Shapiro against Virginia, and Humphries 15-inning pitching win over Wake Forest.

The team was led by Captain Ed "Yank" Shapiro of Brooklyn, N. Y., and will be captained in 1937 by Buck McCarn, of Kannapolis, N. C.

1936 TENNIS

After a two year lapse, the Carolina tennis team again laid claim to the mythical national championship. This claim was based upon its 1936 record of 16 wins in as many starts. The Tar Heels bolstered their win column to 108 wins against two losses since 1929.

With such stars as Archibald Henderson, Jr., and Co-captains Eddie DeGray and Frank Shore as a nucleus and augmented by Ramsay Potts, Ed Fuller, John Foreman, Gordon Robinson, Frank Farrel, and John Yoemans from the 1935 star freshman squad, Coach John Kenfield was able to place a winning team on the courts at all times. This aggregation of netmen took matches from such outstanding teams as Yale, Duke, Amherst, Army, Navy and Princeton. The Tigers defeated Carolina in 1934 and 1935, but met defeat in 1936 by a 7-2 count.

Carolina men were not only victorious in dual meets, but also led the field in both State and Southern conference tournaments. In the former, Henderson defeated DeGray for the singles title, while in the latter Potts won over Henderson. In both tournaments the Carolinians eliminated all outside competition in the first round. Potts and Fuller took both doubles crowns.

The team also entered several open tournaments where they were highly successful. In all the matches, Carolina men reached the top rungs of the ladder only to be beaten by such national stars as Burge, Hines, Lawrence and Hall.

Heavy losses by graduation in 1935 considerably weakened the "Flying Tar Heels" of the cinder track in their 1936 endeavors and Carolina lost the supremacy of Dixie which it had so proudly held for a number of years. However, the quality of Carolina track training and coaching was reflected by Harry Williamson's making the United States' Olympic team and finishing sixth in the finals of the 800-meter run at Berlin.

The Dartmouth Indians gave ample proof that the Tar Heels were not up to their usual par for the 1936 season as they triumphed in the initial meet of the year $88\frac{3}{4}$ to $37\frac{1}{4}$. Ten out of 14 firsts went to the visitors in Carolina's worst defeat since 1905. Gammon, Gardiner, Bannon and Finlay scored the Tar Heel wins.

The next meet saw Carolina score its first victory by a 77-49 margin over William and Mary, the Tar Heels capturing nine firsts and tying for another. The "junior twins," Graham Gammon and Bob Gardiner, won the mile and 880 respectively, the latter in 2:02.2, which was a clean sweep for Carolina.

Carolina next traveled to Charlottesville and defeated Virginia's Cavaliers 72 to 54. Charlie Farmer turned in the feature Tar Heel performance with a 21.8 win in the 220.

Duke finally gained revenge with an 87½ to 38 2/3 triumph in the annual meet. Despite the one-sided team score Carolina produced two of the three outstanding stars of the meet as Gammon won the mile in 4:23.6 and the 880 in 1:57.5 and Rube Graham upset the dope to take the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.4 seconds. Moore of Duke set a new pole vault record of 13'-1".

The Blue Devils next replaced Carolina as State Champions, taking the title which the Tar Heels had held for 14 years with a score of 92 to Carolina's 41. Davidson was third. Three titles went to Carolina, Gammon taking the mile, Gardiner the 880, and Co-Captain Drake the 220. The Tar Heel leader staged a powerful finish to defeat Duke's Woodward in the time of 22.7 seconds.

The Midshipmen then pinned a 72-54 reverse on the Carolina tracksters in a thrilling meet. Navy won eleven firsts to Carolina's four. Gammon scored a double triumph in the mile and 880, Barwick captured the discus, and Rube Graham upset prognostications with a win over the great Paterson in the high hurdles.

Duke's Blue Devils continued to take over Carolina's past laurels, winning the Southern Conference title with 67 1/3 points to Carolina's 34½. Gammon, Gardiner, Finlay, Drake, Farmer, Juliber, and Evans all placed in the finals although none could garner championships.

The state of North Carolina has done much to foster the building of better bodies for her citizens. Playgrounds form an important part of all her cities.

1936 GOLF

North Carolina's 1936 golf team played a difficult schedule, gaining three wins against six losses. Led by Captain Dick Harris, who played good, consistent golf all season, the linksmen displayed their capabilities in overwhelming Dartmouth, Davidson and Wake Forest. Losses were to Duke twice, Furman, Georgia, Georgetown and Davidson in a return match. The team completed the season by taking third place in the State Championship, and fourth in the Southern Conference Tourney.

Individual honors were gained by Horace Hamilton, who won the second flight in the Southern Inter-Collegiate Open and Dupont Kirven, who was high scorer for the season with $17\frac{1}{2}$ points.

THE CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

CROSS COUNTRY

With Captain Graham Gammon relegated to the side lines, Carolina's Flying Tar Heels got off on the wrong foot when they lost the opening encounter of the season to the Navy harriers. Bill Hendrix, sophomore ace, paced the field and crossed the tape in one of the fastest times ever recorded on the Annapolis course.

The Tar Heels proceeded to make things right the next day when they took a strong Washington and Lee team into camp. Hendrix tied for first place with his two teammates Andy Jones and Bob Gardiner.

The harriers continued their winning ways, defeating the hill and dalers representing North Carolina State, Duke University, and Davidson College on successive weekends.

At Chapel Hill the Flying Tar Heels wrote finis to a successful season when they placed five men in the first nine, to take the Southern Conference championship away from the Blue Devils. Morse of Duke retained his individual crown, while Hendrix finished fourth and Captain Gammon, running for the first time, finished fifth to lead the new champions to the crown.

WRESTLING

Although the Carolina wrestling was considered to be potentially strong, it failed to live up to pre-season predictions, the final record showing three victories and four defeats. Due to injuries to Captain Frank Umstead and Melvin Ward in crucial meets, Carolina lost close matches to W. & L. 17-13 and to Navy 16-14.

Coach Quinlan's men did, however, win decisively over Duke, 21-9, and Davidson, 22-7, in state competition, only to drop the final match to N. C. State 21-3. Carolina, State and Davidson were all tied for the Big Five title.

Wilbur Gholson led the squad by winning six matches, while Captain Umstead, Williams and Harris followed close behind. Other members of the squad who bolstered the ranks were Ward, Woodson, Crystal, Tankersley, Herring, James, and Davidson. Carolina loses five men by graduation, but their places will be filled by men from the state championship freshman squad.

ADVERTISEMENTS

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE UNIVERSITY?

Dr. John Manning Booker as "Duke of the Humanities" at the coronation ceremonies Student-Faculty day delivered the following report on the "State of the Kingdom of the Greater University," to their imperial highnesses, Queen Virginia and her consort.—ED.

By DUKE JOHNNY BOOKER

YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESSES:

In a very real sense, the hearts of your loyal subjects thrill to this auspicious occasion. In their behalf, I express their joyous welcome to the duties of your high offices, with all the rights and privileges thereunto appertaining. We are particularly delighted that we have the fair sex represented on the throne, and the more so because it has no representatives in the lower classes of our academic proletariat.

GRAHAM PLAN IN EFFECT

We regret that Your Majesties receive no emoluments for your duties. Unfortunately that is impossible under the Graham Plan. But at least you will have the consolation of preserving your amateur standing.

Your advent to power appeals to all thoughtful subjects as most timely, since in the present, all things academic, as it were, seem to be resolving themselves into chaos. Ancient loyalties are being ruthlessly discarded. Some of your subjects are declining to pay their subscription fees to the Daily Tar Heel—all things considered a dangerously radical sheet edited by highly suspicious characters. Only the Buccaneer maintains an unchallenged circulation, a publication that, in the opinion of staid elements, is best characterized by William Dean Howell's aphorism as erotic, neurotic, and tommyrotic. Even the levy of the athletic fee is disrupted. The cheering sections are not as full or the yells as fierce as of yore; neither the pep nor the pop is as strong.

DAINGEROUS TIMES

The innocuous bull-session has given place to the deliberations of such organizations as "The Foreign Polity League," which invite to the rostra and agora of Your Majesties' Kingdom speakers who are not always sympathetic to monarchical rule. There is, or was, even a Socialists' Club. Dangerous times, Your Majesties; dangerous times!

After a man's heart...

*...when smokers find out the good things
Chesterfields give them*

will do*

Art has come to town. Not only do "the Play-makers" still stage plays that no careful student would let his teacher read. Not only does the department of music encourage the performance of music that sounds radical and even blasphemous, and is unintelligible to sensible people. More dangerous still, the pictorial arts have gained a foothold; and the first fruits of them are cartoons lampooning no less an august body than the Faculty of Your Majesties' University.

NOTHING IS SACRED

I should be remiss in my duty if I failed to report to Your Majesties that the criticism now leveled with pen and brush at this learned body of devoted teachers calls into question the very foundations of education. Nothing remains sacred; even the efficiency of the faculty has been challenged. Recently a loyal alumnus of our University confided in me that it was not the Graham Plan or Consolidation that bothered him so much; what concerned him more was the inefficiency of the faculty as revealed in the attacks of the Daily Tar Heel. Rebellion has raised its head against laws long-accepted as immutable, such as grading systems, compulsory attendance, and examination methods. I must express the fear I feel that

... PRECIOUS HERITAGE ...

From American institutions this June go forth thousands of graduates, none of whom carry with them a more precious heritage than that attached to being a "Carolina man." Make your coming years a tribute to this heritage.

the day is not far off when lectures will be given and received by bedside radio, and examinations will be conducted by mental telepathy.

I cannot conceal from Your Majesties the spread of an uneasy feeling among your student subjects that an education is to be had in Your Majesties' realm. The Phi Beta Kappa key is no longer a badge of shame; it is now worn openly. The very air is tainted, as it were, with a suspicious odour of intellectual curiosity. Nothing more than an odour as yet; but when, I ask, when may it not become a stench in your royal nostrils.

More and more accentuated are the outward manifestations of the progress of education. The grind of curricular machinery combines with the whirr of extra-curricular activities to indicate an inward itch that apparently cannot be scratched. It is with becoming hesitancy that I assume the prophet's mantle. You ask me, does the future hold for us chaos or cosmos? I answer—but only tentatively—"Yes" and "No," and emphatically both.

Whatever it holds for us, the hearts of the devoted subjects now assembled to hail your coronation will beat loyally to the end.

NO MORE
BLUNDERWEAR
... I'll stick to
HANES!

MISTER, if you want an under-shirt that fits like a potato-sack, you don't want HANES. But if you like it snugging your ribs—with a smooth, spruce, featherweight grip—HANES is your dish. No matter how much you wash these shirts, they look and feel neat and clean-cut!

Here's another thing about HANES: You tuck the tail into your shorts in the morning, and find it still there at night — not bunched at your waist. HANES is too long for that. This is underwear . . . NOT blunderwear!

When you buy shorts, be sure to ask for HANES. Legs, crotch, and seat are cut to keep you free from friction—nothing binds or pulls. Genuine Lastex in the belt. Colors guaranteed fast. See a HANES Dealer today. P. H. Hanes Knitting Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.
